DENTIST HERE TURNS AUTHOR

DR. JESSE MILLER'S WORK TO BE USED IN SCHOOLS.

ON CARE OF TEETH

Local Man's Chapter Is Selected to Go
Into All Physiology Texts
Used in State.

Physiology textbooks used in Missouri schools in the future are to contain two new chapters on dental hygiene, the first of which was written by Dr. Jesse Miller of this city, with illustrations by Dr. Jesse Miller, Jr. Pamphlets containing the two chapters on "The Teeth and Their Care," as they will appear in the textbooks, have been received here by Dr. Miller, together with copies of a letter which Charles A. Lee, state superintendent of schools, has sent to all book publishers. The superintendent's letter notifies the publishers that hereafter any physiology text which they expect to sell for use in Missouri schools must contain the two approved chapters on dental hygiene, without change.

The publication of the chapters and the order that they be inserted in all physiologies by next year, marks the end of a long fight by the Missouri State Dental association to bring the textbooks up to date—a movement in which Dr. Miller had a leading part. The law itself was written by Dr. Miller in 1921, when he was a member of the Missouri Legislature.

Old Sections Antiquated.

"All textbooks used in the schools are on file in the state superintendent's office," Dr. Miller explained. "I went over them and found that the dental hygiene sections of all the physiology texts were fifteen years old, or older."

The law prepared by Dr. Miller passed the house with only two dissenting votes and later was approved by the senate unanimously. It provides that "a chapter or chapters on dental hygiene be required in all textbooks on physiology used in the public schools of the state of Missouri," and that "said chapter or chapters shall convey the proper knowledge to the pupil on the care, function and relation of the teeth to the general health."

The movement previously had been started by the Northwest Missouri Dental Society in 1918.

After the law's passage, a committee was formed with three members of the state dental association, an appointee of the state superintendent of schools and one of the state board of health. Dentists throughout the nation were invited to submit suitable chapters, and of all those submitted Dr. Miller's was adjudged the best elementary or primary chapter, while the advanced chapter was written by Dr. Rea Proctor McGee, D. D. S., M. D., a widely known oral surgeon and editor of Oral Hygiene, whose home then was in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dr. Miller's chapter was the work of many months, during which he collected the views of many leading dentists throughout the United States.

The new text was prepared, approved by the committee, and now has been issued in printed form. The law governing its study in Missouri provides that all textbooks sold in the state in 1928 must include the new chapters, but it is recommended that they be placed in use with the opening of the schools this fall. A supply of the pamphlets containing them is available so that where the physiologies already in use are satisfactory they may be retained and the new chapters inserted.

The primary chapter written by Dr. Miller contains seven illustrations by Dr. Jesse Miller, Jr., the author's son, now a member of the dental corps of the United States Navy, stationed in the Philippines. The temporary and permanent teeth, their positions in the jaws, a cross-section view of a tooth, pictures portraying the proper way to brush teeth and the results of neglect, all are illustrated.

Wide interest in the dental profession has been aroused by the action taken by the Missouri dentists, and Oral Hygiene, the leading magazine of the profession, commenting editorially, asserted that the movement was "the greatest idea advanced for the education of the laity in the last fifty years."

So great has the interest in the law been in other parts of the country that numerous requests have been received by the president of the dental board for a copy of the Missouri law. Several dental associations in nearby states have announced that already measures have been framed for intro-

MUTZ IS NEW SCOUTMASTER OF TROOP ONE

Takes Position Resigned by the Rev. W. N. Dewar.—Boys to Take Overnight Hike Next Tuesday.

John G. Mutz now is scoutmaster of Maryville Boy Scout troop No. 1, having taken the office held by the Rev. W. N. Dewar, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, who has resigned.

Mr. Mutz was assistant during the time the Reverend Mr. Dewar was scout master. Chester Lyle, who was second assistant scout master was named to take Mr. Mutz's place and Mr. Dewar will act as second assistant scout master.

Mr. Mutz announced today that the troop will go on an overnight hike next Tuesday if the weather permits. The boys will take provisions for four meals, do their own cooking, sleep in pup tents, and receive instructions in general camp life. The site for the camp has not been selected.

GREETINGS TO 14 COUNTRIES

WITH FOREIGN LANDS.

TO INDIAN PUPILS, TOO

Other Projects Have Included Gifts
To Veterans' Hospitals, Annual Report Shows.

School children of Nodaway County exchanged greetings with the school children of fourteen other countries and with a number of Indian schools in this country last year, the annual report of Mrs. Fern Crull, formerly chairman of the Junior Red Cross work in this county, shows.

The schools in the county where the Junior Red Cross work was done last year were Barnard, Burlington Junction, Clearmont, Conception Junction, Franklin, Hopkins, Parnell, Pickering, St. Mary's, St. Mary's, Skidmore, Washington and Ravenwood.

The countries which have exchanged portfolios or other communications with Nodaway schools are: Austria, three exchanges; Belgium, four exchanges; Bulgaria, one exchange; Czechoslovakia, three; Germany, one; Italy, one; Japan, six; New Zealand, one; Norway, one; Poland, one; Porto Rico, one; Roumania, one; Spain, one; and South Africa, three.

Portfolios have been sent to the many schools with whom local schools have exchanged.

Nodaway children have sent the following materials to children's hospitals: scrapbooks, jointed cardboard dolls, cardboard animals, books, Christmas and bedtime stories, Valentines, Dutch-doll bookmarks, envelopes with cut-out stories, reindeer, sleighs, pointsettias for window decorations, Santa Claus' with pop corn bags, and other articles.

The children have received in addition to portfolios, pottery, species of cactus, bows, arrows and dolls.

Articles sent from this country to veteran's hospitals included needle books, greeting cards, life books, health books, garden seeds, dolls, handkerchiefs and 175 Christmas boxes, many of which went to Czechoslovakia and Austria.

The local hospital received scrap books, puzzles, paper flowers, birds and other articles.

From an egg sale held at Easter $66.78 was taken in. This money was sent to the National Junior Red Cross fund. A contest for the most appropriate use for currents sent from the Near East also was a feature of the year's activities.

The National Junior Red Cross erected a school for the boys in Albania and the fund of the junior workers has been partially used for flood relief work.

Mrs. Crull again asks Nodaway Countians to give toys to be sent to flood sufferers.

Austin Draper, Elmo, Is Declared Bankrupt

Austin Draper of Elmo was adjudged bankrupt at a hearing last Thursday in United States district court at St. Joseph, according to an official notice to creditors. The first meeting of the creditors will be held on July 8 in the St. Joseph office of John S. Boyer, referee in bankruptcy.

CHAUTAUQUA AUGUST 11-17

DATES ARE ANNOUNCED BY FIELD
MANAGER, HERE TODAY.

BOARD MEETS TONIGHT

Reorganization Necessary Because of Absence of Some Members—Good Program Promised.

Dates for the Maryville Chautauqua today were announced definitely as August 11 to 17 inclusive. A six-day program is in store.

C. C. Cullett, of Des Moines, field manager for the Redpath-Vawter Chautauqua system, was here today conferring with local chautauqua board members.

The program will begin on Thursday and continue through to and including Wednesday, with a program by local talent to be given on Sunday.

A meeting of the Maryville chautauqua board will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the M. E. Church, South, the Rev. R. A. Mitchell, who is secretary of the board, announced. It will be a reorganization meeting, as three of the local board members are not here this summer.

Officers to succeed L. L. St. Clair, chairman, and L. G. Somerville, vice-chairman, will be chosen, besides a member to replace Roland Wray. The other members of the local chautauqua board are John G. Mutz, the Reverend Mr. Mitchell, Fred French, J. D. Richey, Arch Frank, Mrs. Charles Gaugh, Mrs. Karl Zimmerman and Jonathan Stark.

Mr. Cullett said that the guarantee for the chautauqua is $1,685. Tickets will be sold for $2 and $1. The local board will make arrangements for the ticket sale.

The program which comes to Maryville is what is known as the "premier" chautauqua course. It plays at large cities such as Sioux City, Ia., and Sioux Falls, S. D. Some of the towns in Missouri at which it will show are Albany, Stanberry, Savannah, Tarkio, Mount City, Carrollton, Kirksville, Fulton, Mexico, Fayette, Red Oak and Corns, Ia., also are on the circuit.

The programs which will be given here start at Albany, August 9, then at Stanberry, August 10. The players go from there to Tarkio, opening there August 12.

Mr. Cullett said a course mingled with considerable fun and humor has been arranged for this year. The lecture program is an outstanding one, he said, with Herbert Leon Cope, who has been a headline for years, as the feature of the first evening's program. "Lightnin'" the play that made Broadway and Frank Bacon famous, is listed for the evening of the second day.

As in previous years, there will be a Junior Town again. A children's pageant will be given the afternoon of the fifth day.

Program Announced For Harp Concert

Alberto Salvi, Noted Musician, to Appear at State Teachers College
Tomorrow Night.

Alberto Salvi, noted concert harpist, who will appear at the State Teachers College, at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night will present the following program: Allegro from C minor Concerto-Zabala.

To Spring—Grieg-Salvi.
Spanish Dance—Tedeschi.
Barcarolle from "Tales of Hoffman"—Offenbach-Salvi.

Norwegian Ballade—Poenitz.
Intermission.
Valse Brillante—Salvi.

Fantaisie Impromptu—Chopin.
Italian Serenade—Salvi.
Danse des Sylphes—Posse.
Gavotte—Bach.

The Music Box—Tedeschi.
Tarantelle—Apotommas-Salvi.

Attention is called to the following entertainment on July 13 of Paul Fleming, magician. Mr. Fleming is professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania and during the summer has achieved an enviable reputation as a magician. Last summer he entertained audiences at more than fifty colleges and universities.

Guests at Fisher Home.

Dr. George E. Glaze of Riverside, Cal., and Omer Fisher of Los Angeles arrived Saturday evening for a visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fisher. The visitors motored through Dr. Glaze and Mrs. Fisher are brother and sister.

Miss Helen Dragoo's Body Here Tonight

Funeral Services for Victim of Auto
Accident to Be Held Thursday Afternoon.

The body of Miss Helen Dragoo, who was killed early Sunday morning in an automobile accident west of Fort Morgan, Colo., will arrive in Maryville tonight. Her father, J. O. Dragoo, and an aunt, Mrs. Glen Gray of Tarkio, are accompanying the body by train. Her brother, Philip Dragoo, who accompanied them to Fort Morgan, is driving the Dragoo car back.

The funeral will be held at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Dragoo home, 221 South Main, conducted by the Rev. M. McNamee, pastor of the M. E. Church, Tarkio, an old friend of the family. Burial will be in Tarkio cemetery.

Miss Dragoo was a member of the M. E. Church at Hopkins.

TO DECIDE ON WELL TONIGHT

OIL COMPANY DIRECTORS TO MEET AT SKIDMORE.

MAY TRY THIRD TIME

Others Favor "Shooting" of Well No.
2 at Depth Where Sand
Was Found.

Drilling of well No. 3 on a new location will come up for discussion tonight at Skidmore before the board of directors of the Quitman Oil and Gas Company, Van Goslee, president of the board announced this noon. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Goslee said the directors would decide what should be done with location No. 2 on the Joe Carden farm, nine miles west and a quarter of a mile north of Maryville. A depth of 1,400 feet was reached at this location, with what was described as a good showing of sand at 1,337 feet.

The stockholders met last week to decide as to what further course the oil company should take, but left the matter with the board of directors.

Some of the stockholders thought it might be well to "shoot" the location at the depth of the oil sand, while the majority of opinion seemed to be for raising money to drill on another location.

It has been said that tests made by E. C. Blood with his "doodle bug" and the instrument used by Dr. H. H. Francis of St. Joseph registered a showing of oil about 175 feet south of location No. 2 instead of at the place where location No. 2 was drilled.

Kahoka Man Sues M. F. A. for $200,000

Action For Libel Also Names Group Of Newspapers And Individuals
As Defendants.

Kahoka, Mo., June 28.—A $200,000 suit for libel has been filed in Clark County circuit court by C. A. Kilkenny, of Kahoka, against the Missouri farmers' Association, and a group of newspapers and individuals in Missouri.

The action is based particularly on a statement relative to Kilkenny, which purported to have been signed by several men here and which was printed in publications in several parts of Missouri two years ago.

Kilkenny alleges the statements were false and were circulated with malicious intent to injure his reputation. He asks $100,000 actual damages and $100,000 punitive damages.

Sunday Movies Will Be Tested at LaPlata

Theater Manager Is Arrested When He Offers Free Show On "Blue Law" Day.

La Plata, Mo., June 28.—La Plata's Sunday "Blue Law," which prohibits the showing of a motion picture show on Sunday, is to be tested in the September term of Circuit Court here.

George Reesman, manager of the Reesman Theater, recently opened his theater to the public free of charge for a Sunday evening performance. He was arrested and fined $25 and costs by Judge J. W. Wagon. He immediately appealed the case to the September term of court.

The light failed in the theater on the Saturday evening preceding the Sunday show, and Reesman invited everyone to come back Sunday evening and bring their friends to see the show free. A full house attended.

ENLOE BOARD AGAIN ACTIVE

TWO MEMBERS OF PENAL DE-PARTMENT ARE OUSTED.

MISS WILKINSON OUT

Summarily Dismissed as Head of Girls
Industrial School—Autenreith,
Auditor, Loses Job.

By United Press

Jefferson City, June 28.—Miss Elizabeth J. Wilkinson, superintendent of the Industrial Home for Girls at Chillicothe for ten years, was discharged yesterday by the Enloe prison board, it was learned today. No reason was assigned by the board and it was believed it was either a political move or that the superintendent did not agree with the policies of the board.

Mrs. Effie Seoby, assistant superintendent of the industrial home, was placed in charge.

It is known that Miss Wilkinson became disgusted with conditions generally under the present board several months ago and tendered her resignation in a rather curt letter to the board.

Withdraw Resignation.

The board then sent A. H. Steinbeck, former parole and pardons commissioner to Chillicothe to urge Miss Wilkinson to retain her post. He succeeded in getting her to withdraw her letter of resignation and she continued in her post until her summary ouster yesterday.

Mr. Steinbeck later was removed by Governor Baker as a member of the board, because he testified before the Senate investigation committee about alleged irregularities in the conduct of the penitentiary.

Prison Official Ousted.

Jefferson City, June 28.—Karl Autenreith, auditor and credit man for the industries department of the penitentiary today is out of a job—the fourth employee to be fired by the Enloe prison board because of testimony before the recent Senate investigating committee.

Autenreith had been connected with the penitentiary offices in the last three administrations and was regarded as qualified and competent.

The prison board directed Autenreith to turn over his books to R. A. Loucks, who has been employed by the board at $350 a month.

Autenreith's salary was $300 a month.

Loucks was employed privately by Dr. Enloe during the legislative session to prepare reports for the investigating committee.

Mr. Autenreith first was employed at the prison offices in the Gardner administration. It was in the Hyde administration that he was placed in full charge of the industries department.

Mrs. Stapler, Resident Here 47 Years, Dies

Funeral Services Are Thursday Morning at St. Mary's Church—
Came to U. S. From Germany.

Mrs. Anna Stapler, 80 years old, died at 7:30 o'clock last night at her home, 1010 North Buchanan street. Mrs. Stapler had been ill since January 1. She suffered a stroke of paralysis on April 14 and a second stroke two weeks ago.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Thursday morning at St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Father Felix will officiate, and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Stapler was a native of Germany. She was born in Baden Baden on March 17, 1847. She came to the United States when 29 years old. Her home had been in Maryville since 1880.

Surviving are four sons and two daughters. They are: Henry, August and Misses Anna and Louise Stapler, all of Maryville; and Joe and Frank Stapler, Minneapolis. Others surviving are a stepson, John Stapler, of Omaha, two granddaughters, Mrs. Carl Wiles and Julia Helen Stapler, Maryville, and eight great grandchildren. Mr. Stapler died Nov. 12, 1917.

Joe Stapler visited his mother here last week and will not return for the funeral. His brother, Frank Stapler, also will be unable to attend the funeral on account of his wife's illness.

Marble Players in National Tourney.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 28.—Thirty-seven boys, each champion marble player of his city, started Monday in the elimination rounds of the fifth National Marble Tournament. A good gallery attended. Final matches are scheduled for Friday.

ARMY FLIERS HOP OFF FOR HAWAII; RIVALS FORCED BACK

SUN, STARS AND RADIO TO GUIDE FLIERS

New Instruments to Be Tested on Pacific Flight.—The Rival Planes Compared.

San Francisco, June 28.—The sun, the stars and the radio will guide the Pacific fliers in their dash from here to Hawaii.

Although the wireless will be a large factor in the attempt to be made by Lieut. Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, the heavens will be their foremost guide. Ernest L. Smith, civilian contender, will use the radio, but not to such an extent as the army fliers. Two radio beacon stations, one here and one near Honolulu, will form a wireless lane for Maitland and Hegenberger to follow.

In the navigator's cabin aboard the giant army Fokker were installed virtually all the instruments recognized by aeronautic experts as essential to keeping the craft on its true course. In addition were instruments unknown to fliers and carefully guarded as secrets withheld from common knowledge until after they proved themselves on the hop across the 2,400 miles of Pacific waters.

Sextants, compasses and radio set were installed in the navigator's cabin of the Smith plane. Perhaps the most interesting instrument in this little monoplane was the radio set, constructed especially for the flight, capable of operating on a 660 meter wave length, similar to that used by the Pacific Ocean liners and weighing only thirty-five pounds.

Charles H. Carter, navigator, aboard the Smith plane, is to transmit for five minutes hourly a signal with his radio set. Ships hearing these signals will know that the plane is safely in the air. Should the plane be forced down into the water the set is expected to be able to send out its S. O. S. signals for twenty-four hours.

The army plane, fully loaded, weighs 13,500 pounds, the Smith plane 4,732 pounds.

The Fokker has a cruising radius of 3,000 miles, Smith's plane 3,250 miles.

Lieutenant Maitland said he expected to complete the flight in about twenty-four or twenty-seven hours. Smith said he planned on reaching the island in twenty-four hours and could beat the army plane if the latter had several hours' lead.

The army plane is expected to consume about thirty gallons of gasoline an hour. The smaller competing monoplane is expected to consume twelve gallons an hour.

Smith's plane has a gasoline capacity of 450 gallons. Lieutenant Maitland's plane is designed to carry 1,040 gallons. Each expects to be able to travel 3,000 miles on this amount of fuel. The distance to Honolulu is 2,400 miles.

Hawaii to Extend "Aloha" Greeting

Official Welcome Already Is Arranged for First Fliers to Reach Islands from the Mainland.

Honolulu, June 28.—Hawaii was prepared today to extend her famous "Aloha" greeting to the first fliers to reach here from across the Pacific.

When definite word was received here Monday that the army aviators, Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger, were planning to start today on their oceanic journey, but little time was lost in arranging an official reception.

A Cracked Propeller Halts Grace's Flight

Honolulu, June 28.—Plans of Richard Grace to hop off for California yesterday afternoon, struck a definite snag here when a test flight with an army propeller, installed in place of the cracked blade of his own plane, proved unsatisfactory.

Newman Club Plans For a Picnic Soon

The Newman Club met this morning in room 31 at the College. After the usual business meeting, the following program was given:

Reading, "A Fish Story," Bernard Conway.

Two violin selections by Merle Williams, accompanied by his sister, Miss Merce Williams.

Plans were made for a picnic to be held soon.

MAITLAND AND HEGENBERGER
FAR OFF U. S. COAST.

START MADE AT 7:10

Smith and Carter, Attempting to Overtake Larger Plane, Break a Windshield.

Oakland Airport, San Leandro Bay, Cal., June 28.—Edmund J. Moffett, flight backer, announced at noon today that the Smith-Carter attempted flight to Honolulu is indefinitely postponed.

"Lack of confidence on the part of Captain Carter causes us to announce indefinite postponement of the flight," Moffett declared. "After the take-off came the unfortunate accident to the windshield, and Carter asked Smith to return. After the new windshield had been installed, Smith wanted to go on immediately, but Carter was unwilling."

Carter said it was too late in the day in the first place, and that he did not care to make the trip as the army plane at that time was five hours ahead.

Smith left the flying field with a woman friend, his head buried in his hands. He said he did not know what his next move would be.

Moffett announced that Smith could make another attempt with a new navigator if he wished.

The latest report on the progress of the army plane, from an unidentified ship at sea, reported it more than 300 miles west of the American coast. Its speed was estimated at at least 100 miles an hour. Navy experts said if Maitland and Hegenberger maintained this speed they should reach Honolulu well within the 24-hour period they allotted themselves.

Oakland Airport, San Francisco Bay, Cal., June 28.—The single motored monoplane of Ernest L. Smith and Captain Charles Carter returned to Oakland Airport at 9:45 a. m. today after "aking off" at 9:33 a. m.

The plane landed at the far end of the field and it was believed possible a second start would be made from the opposite end of the runway, due to a sudden shifting of wind.

It was reported that the return was due to a defective windshield. It was said a new one would be installed immediately and a second take-off made.

Army Plane Far Ahead.

Two hours and twenty-eight minutes ahead of the civilian flier was the Army's great three-motored bird of paradise, speeding between 90 and 100 miles an hour toward Honolulu.

The first wish of Smith, civilian pilot, was to reach Hawaii. The second was to overtake the army airmen, Lieut. Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, who took off at 7:10 a. m. coast time.

The army plane is 300 miles west of California, according to a radio dispatch from the fliers, intercepted by the navy radio department here.

First Take-Off At 7:10 A. M.

Oakland, Airport, San Leandro Bay, Cal., June 28.—The trimotored Fokker monoplane piloted by army aviators soared into low fog over San Leandro Bay at 7:10 a. m. today to start its attempted flight to Hawaii.

The plane was in the air one minute after starting down the runway.

The start was sudden. Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hegenberger had arrived at the field only a few minutes previously.

Suddenly both Maitland and his navigator donned helmets and jumpers. They entered the plane, waved goodbye and were off.

Rival Flier Smiles.

Ernest L. Smith, air mail pilot, who expects to beat the army fliers to Hawaii, smiled as he saw the great olive drab ship rise into the air.

Fair, warmer today followed by cooler by night in northwest portions; partly cloudy Wednesday; cooler in east and south portions.

CERTIFIED ARTISTS.

Art is to be certified in Turkey from now on. The process sounds quite as bad as any proposed or practiced literally or artistically in this country.

Under the reform plan only sculptors, musicians or other artists who hold municipal certificates will be allowed to express their inspirations in Constantinople. These certificates are secured by passing certain examinations given by a commission appointed by the prefect. Any artist who fails to pass his examination will be branded as a charlatan and forbidden to pursue his artistic vocation within the city limits.

One wonders what sort of examination is given and who passes on the commission's qualifications for artistic judgment. Ordinarily an artist is known by his works. If his music or sculpture or painting means enough to enough different and disinterested persons, it usually turns out to be art. If it doesn't mean anything to anybody, then it isn't art, and whether he pursues his work further or not harms nobody, unless perhaps himself and family.

A St. Louis judge vigorously criticized girls who accept rides in autos with men they do not know in passing on the lines of young men charged with running the girls. He said "girls who accept automobile rides from strangers ought to be fined as much as the boys they bring into court. In fact both of you girls ought to have a good spanking," said Judge Geyer, and he was right. Girls who have no more sense than to climb into an automobile in a large city with strange men ought to be taught something by their mothers. And by the way, a good many mothers now days could well afford to give more attention to their children than they do.

Citizens of St. Louis put up $21,000 to entertain Col. Lindbergh, which was probably punishment to the young man after all the other entertainment to which he had been subjected. St. Louis couldn't do otherwise than pay proper homage to the young man that city had presented to the world but, after New York and Washington had gotten to him first, the ordeal was getting old to both Col. Lindbergh and the public.

Cleveland, Ohio, wants both the Democratic and Republican national conventions next year.

BARBS
It is a curious fact that many of the ladies who have written to ask that they be taken along on the flights to Hawaii, have signed themselves only with initials.

A Los Angeles woman of 92 took a 29-minute airplane flight and announced she'd like to own one. Timbuctoo, watch for her!

If you run up bills you're a spend-thrift. If you don't your credit's no good. Oh, well, probably your credit's no good, anyhow.

China still keeps on fighting. We thought the baccalaureate speakers had settled all that.

A western editor retired the other day with $100,000. He worked hard, helped people, sponsored worthy causes, lived a good, clean life, set a fine example, and then found oil in his back yard.

Jose Kollontay, Soviet minister to Mexico, says the modern woman has learned to subdue her emotions to reason, to master her tender feelings and put business and work before sentiment. So that's why men buy so many socks nowadays!

Crop Reports Kept in Darkest Secrecy

Anyhow The Government Employees Concerned Seem Anxious To Explain The Process.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington, June 27.—The favorite old feature story of how the government crop reports are guarded up to the last second on the day they are made public is being dragged out again.

No Washington newspaperman is regarded as fully initiated until he writes this particular yarn, which was originally one of the most interesting stories to be found and apparently is still interesting to some reporters who write it about twice a year, on especially dull days. Every government employ in Washington wants every correspondent to rewrite this chestnut, it seems.

"You oughta know about this," says the first informant. "Each government statistician mails his report special delivery to the secretary of agriculture a day or two in advance and then they lock it all up in a special mail box in the secretary's office. In the morning, before daylight, 4 a. m. or some such time, the chairman of the crop reporting board, one member and one cop go over and the secretary's secretary or somebody opens the box—"

"Yeah," replies your correspondent, "but I've seen that story a dozen times. What I want is something new."

"Some of these crop reporters far off, wire in their dope in secret code," explains the next volunteer. "They put it all in the box and every three or four months they change the code."

"Yeah," says the weary correspondent, "maybe I'll write it some day." But they won't let you rest.

"Nobody knows what the whole crop totals or averages until a few minutes before announcement. That keeps the stock market gamblers from bribing somebody to give them the dope for a cleanup. As soon as the board prepares the report and has it approved by the secretary of agriculture, they take it into an anteroom where they have half a dozen telegraph keys and telephones. They make the newspaper reporters stand back of a chalk line and give them copies of the report and then when someone yells 'Go!' just as the clock strikes they all rush to the instruments and send the crop report out over the country on the wires."

Do you wonder that correspondents get sick and tired of hearing this same thing over and over?

THRIFT OF TIME

By S. W. STRAUS,

President American Society for Thrift. Thrift means the conservation or most efficient use of all our possessions.

If it would be possible to translate our wasted hours into terms of dollars and cents we would be surprised at the results. The average man and woman probably wastes more value through lost time than through squan-

It also is to be borne in mind that wasted time leads to wasted money, wasted health and a lowering of one's moral standards.

One of the best ways to practice thrift is to keep at work—to keep doing something that is worth while and is along the lines of self advancement and self improvement.

An important educational and social betterment organization has undertaken a survey of how people spend their idle time. The object is to make recommendations which, it is hoped, will lead to the advantageous employment of leisure hours.

This movement emphasizes one of the important phases of practical thrift, namely, the conservation of time. We are apt to think of thrift too little in terms of money only and too little in terms of moments and hours.

It was through the rightful employment of spare time that Lincoln acquired an education, and men like Carnegie, Hill and Edison worked themselves up from positions of minor importance.

Lindbergh, too has shown the value of thrift of time for it has been his custom to spend his spare hours in study and research instead of wasting them in the pursuit of idle pleasures as so often is the case with young men of his years.

Thomas Jefferson made it a rule always to keep a good book within reach and whenever he had even a few moments of spare time he utilized them in helpful reading.

Every employer will tell you that if you want to build yourself up and make advancement do not become known as a time waster.

Thrift of time is a lesson all must learn before success can be achieved.

YOUNG WOMEN MAY KEEP WELL

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Here is Proof

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers." Mrs.

Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results from its use."

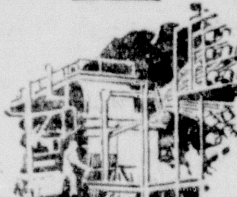

In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me."

One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. My condition made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask him, 'How is housekeeping?' and he says, 'It is just like being in Heaven!' Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?"

Every employer will tell you that if you want to build yourself up and make advancement do not become known as a time waster.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

Putting plenty of the right kind of rubber in the right place is a most important element in the building of United States Tires. This Web Cord machine soaks all the Cotton Cord for Royal Cord Balloons with pure rubber latex. Latex is the right kind of rubber to impregnate the Cotton Cord.

If you were building a tire for yourself, you would not skimp on the rubber. Neither do we. This Company owns enormous rubber plantations including the largest producing plantation in the world. On these plantations are 10,000,000 rubber trees—pedigreed stock.

We have invented Sprayed Rubber—the outstanding process for producing rubber. Sprayed Rubber is the strongest and most uniform rubber known. It is made without the use of smoke or acids.

We have invented Web Cord, the most modern way of combining rubber and cords.

The policy of "Plenty of Rubber" plus the ability to get the rubber and the skill to put the right kind of rubber in the right place, shows itself in the quality of Royal Cord Balloons on the wheels of your car.

Army Fliers Hop Off For Hawaii

expected to be in the air within an hour or two.

"I can give them a two-hour start and beat them," Smith said.

The actual rise of the Fokker was veiled behind clouds of dust. Word of the take-off was flashed to the starting point from a telephone down the field. The great plane, a duplicate of the "America," which Commander Richard E. Byrd hopes to fly to Europe, soared toward the Golden Gate, opening up the 2,404 mile waterway to the finishing point in Honolulu.

The Fokker carried a load of 18,900 pounds. Its only occupants were Maitland and Hegenberger.

Time 24 to 27 Hours.

Maitland estimated the time required to make the flight would be from twenty-four to twenty-seven hours.

The start of the army flight was dramatic in its unexpectedness.

"Goodby, boys, we're off."

Immediately after the departure an army officer was seen to walk to Smith, who hoped to be first in taking off. Smith smiled and appeared undisturbed in the strength of his own conviction that he can still "beat 'em to Hawaii."

Smith and his navigator, Captain L. H. Carter, engaged in excited activity as soon as the Fokker plane was beyond sight. They made repeated trips between the plane and their supply tent.

The propellers of the Travelair was whirled at 8:45 coast time, and the motor popped into action.

Word passed around the field that the take-off awaited arrival from Crissav field of a plane bearing radio parts.

Smith Plane Declared Ready.

At Oakland, mechanics on the Smith monoplane, "City of Oakland," said the take-off could be made whenever Smith and Carter were ready.

The army plane passed over Crissav field and west over the open sea at 7:21 a. m.

The United States government weather bureau pronounced weather conditions ideal for the Hawaiian flight today.

The army plane passes over the Farallon Islands, western outposts of California on the Pacific, at 7:40 a. m. The Farallons are forty miles from Oakland Airport.

Smith Lost Decision.

In the fight game, few welter-weights are able to take on light heavyweights and meet with much success.

Most fights on the ball field are impromptu affairs. Weight stipulations are seldom considered. They just happen and a later review of the affairs, as a rule, places some one in a very bad light.

I notice that President John Heydler, acting as referee, has suspended Catcher Earl Smith of the Pittsburgh club for his fistieuffs with Manager Dave Bancroft of the Boston Braves.

While all reports of the unfortunate episode make it seem that Smith had the better of the milling, suspension by President Heydler is disqualification, according to ring ethics, and the decision in the record book must of necessity go against the Pirate catcher.

This is not the first time that Catcher Smith has mistaken the ball field for the roped arena. Past performances may go against him.

Like Old Catchers.

As a matter of fact, Smith furnished much copy in two of the more recent world series.

Many of the experts gave Smith credit for the victory scored by Pittsburgh over Washington in the 1925 classic.

"Oh," Smith, as he is called by many because of the nature of his line of chatter, is really a throwback to the catchers of the old school, when it was regarded as a part of the backstopping profession to carry on a torrid conversation with the batter in an effort to disconcert him, thereby keeping him from concentrating on the making of basehits.

From the stands as well as the press box, it was openly apparent that Smith was saying plenty to each and every player as he stepped into the batter's box. I am told by the umpires in charge of the series that much of the chatter referred to alleged family secrets that Smith insisted on broadcasting.

Goose Goslin was one of Smith's chief victims. Before each pitch to Goslin, Smith would crack his open hand into his glove, holding same within a few inches of Goslin's ear, aside from a verbal attack.

The ruse didn't affect Goslin very much, since he and Joe Harris starred at the bat in that series for Washington. Other members of the Senators weren't as fortunate.

Larger Than Bancroft.

Getting back to the recent fight between Smith and Bancroft. It would have been considered had match-making in ring circles. Smith is three inches taller and weighs at least 25 pounds more than Bancroft.

Sending Joe Dundee, welter champ, against Jack Delaney, light heavy title holder, gives you some idea of the difference of the principals as to size.

Delaney would be regarded as an awful egg if he couldn't kayo Dundee, so by a similar line of reasoning Smith is entitled to no great credit for his physical victory over the smaller and much older Bancroft.

Not being familiar with what happened on the ball field, I have no desire to comment on the right or wrong of the affair but it seems as if Smith took no great physical chance when he tied up with Bancroft.

All of which brings back to my memory an episode of the 1921 world series, involving Catcher Smith, then of the New York Giants, and Outfielder Bob Meusel of the Yankees.

Meusel Pulled One.

With the Giants at the time was Emil "Irish" Meusel, one of the crack outfielders of the National League and brother of Bob. The two are entirely different in temperament and style. "Irish" is of the aggressive type, Bob, always the nonchalant.

When Bob Meusel came to the plate in one of the first games, Smith began telling him that he was yellow, a quitter; very much unlike his brother. Bob listened in silence for a time but finally said:

"When I get to third base, we will see how game you are. I am coming in on the first pitch and I will be riding high. Ten to one you won't be near the plate."

Reaching third base a few minutes later, Meusel, in a voice that could be heard all over the field, shouted:

"Now we will see who is yellow! Get ready because here I come." With the pitch he started for the plate and came in high.

It was a well-pitched ball for a catcher to make a play on a man stealing home, but Smith juggled it four or five times and was 10 feet from the plate when Meusel slid across.

Two Suits Filed for Circuit Court Trial

A Mother Seeks to Collect Note and a Loan From Son—Bank Seeks Skidmore Property.

Mrs. Maria D. Wells of Maryville today brought suit in circuit court against her son, Robert Wells, living near Skidmore, for the collection of a note and a debt.

Mrs. Wells is suing for $2,810, with interest at 7 per cent since January 1, 1922, and for $43.25, alleged to have been loaned, with interest at 6 per cent since September 1, 1923, and costs.

An ejection suit was filed by the Barnard State Bank of Barnard yesterday against Paul Fry and Alonzo Meadows, based on ownership of a deed of trust on lots 22 and 23, a five-foot strip off the east side of lot 21 and a 40-foot strip off the west end of lots 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, block 6, original town of Skidmore.

The petition states that the defendants unlawfully withheld from the plaintiff possession of the lots. Damages of $100 and rent of $75 a month from June 1 are asked by the bank.

Oregon to Polls on Higher Tax Measure

Special Election Is Held to Relieve State Of A Million Dollar Deficit—Many Local Measures.

Portland, Ore., June 28.—A special election to solve a financial tangle in which Oregon finds itself today claimed the attention of Oregon voters.

A difference of approximately $1,000,000 between expenses of the state government and available revenue, on the basis of the present taxation system, was responsible for the off-season call to the polls. But communities in all sections of the state took advantage of the occasion and as a result numerous local measures also grace the ballot.

Major interest, however, centered in the proposition to place a tax on all incomes having their source in Oregon with a view of relieving, to some degree, the burden on real property.

Another important proposal and having to do with complicated finances, is an amendment to the 6 per cent tax limitation. Briefly, this means that Oregon cannot tax its property any one year for more than 6 per cent in excess of the tax total for the previous year.

A low taxation base, bound by this limit, prevented the raising of sufficient money for state government. The amendment is a proposal to raise the tax base so that the state may levy a tax in 1928 not in excess of $3,500,000—which is considerable more than the present base can produce.

The bill provides for a mild, graduated tax with a maximum of 3 per cent. Single persons would be exempt $1,000, heads of families and corporations $2,000 with $400 exemption for each child or other dependent.

Another tax affair which found its way on today's ballot is the so-called taxation assessment law, passed by the legislature and on the ballot by grace of referendum. This measure grants the state assessment board broader powers in reviewing the work of county assessors. The fate of it, too, is problematical.

Legislators want more money, a review of the ballot reveals. Those gentlemen decided that $3 per day wasn't enough for first class law makers and therefore submitted a constitutional amendment raising their pay to $10.

Lindsey's Marriage Theory Doesn't Work

Denver Woman Is Arrested In Wichita; Says Judge Advised Her To Do It.

Wichita, Kan., June 28.—Mrs. Daisy Atkinson of Denver, practicing the "companionate marriage" theory of Judge Ben B. Lindsey, juvenile court judge of Denver, had her dream bubble of wedlock without the routine benefit of clergy burst in police court here.

She was arrested and was found to be living with J. Miller, also of Denver, the couple living as man and wife. Miller's wife is dead but Mrs. Atkinson's husband is in a Colorado sanitarium for the insane. When she could not secure a divorce on the insanity plea, she asked Judge Lindsey for advice.

According to Mrs. Atkinson the judge told her she had a right to live with and love Miller under the circumstances. The Wichita police judge thought Lindsey's advice poor.

Dry Men Fight New Moonshine Product

Special Study Is Being Made By Dry Sleuths According To Washington Reports.

Washington, June 28.—Prohibition authorities are preparing to combat a new moonshine product—sugar alky. The prohibition commissioner said recently that corn liquor distillers in cities have turned to manufacturing alcohol from sugar because of the larger profits from this product and that considerable quantities of this new concoction are reaching bootleg channels.

A special study of this situation is being made by dry sleuths, according to advices from Washington. The enforcement commissioner said that a number of alcohol stills have been located in the Middle West.

Unemployment Shows Decline in England

London, June 28.—Unemployment in Great Britain has touched the lowest point in seven years. When the unemployed persons register on May 23rd dropped down to 978,000 it passed just below the unemployment figure reached in December, 1920, in the temporary wave of postwar prosperity.

How unemployment has been steadily declining is illustrated graphically by the unemployment figures commencing November, 1926 when the coal stoppage came to an end.

November, 1926	1,545,000
December, 1926	1,351,000
March, 1927	1,081,000
May 9, 1927	998,300
May 23, 1927	978,000

It is believed that the improvement will continue through June, but considerable increase in the number of unemployed is anticipated during July and August, decreasing again as autumn advances.

Rare Case Of Partial Gas Poisoning Causes Loss Of High Functions Of Brain, Physicians Declare.

Fresno, Cal., June 28.—Because she is a victim of an extremely rare case of partial gas poisoning, Mrs. Clara Drummond, 22, who has been asleep here since April 4, may live for years without any knowledge of it, her physician said recently.

The physician declared, after a thorough examination, that she is not suffering from sleeping sickness, as at first supposed, but that all the higher functions of the brain, such as reason, imagination, and volition have been lost. Her brain refuses to function, her heart, lungs, and digestive organs are unimpaired and she may live for years, the doctor said.

Montana Visitors Leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Appleby and family of Billings, Mont., who motored here last week to visit Mr. Appleby's brother, John Appleby, and other relatives, left yesterday. Before returning home they will visit Denver, Fresno, Cal., and points in Washington.

Mrs. James Conklin and her daughter, Mrs. Hattie House of Omaha, went to Savannah this afternoon.

This and That

J. Ross Fleetwood, county agent, is going to be "thrilled to death," when he returns from his vacation about July 7, to discover a "brand new" screen in his office, hiding all the "ugly" implements that every office has.

Miss Mayme Heflin, Mr. Fleetwood's secretary and efficient aid, hunted around at home and found a part of a screen. She sought the aid of a carpenter and with another "leaf" added to the screen she began decorating the piece of furniture. Paint! Paint! paint! burlap! a bulletin board! You never saw so much dolling up on a screen.

It is to be useful as well as a beautifier and so a bulletin board will be arranged in one of the spaces between the frame.

In a few days the screen will be completed.

Press dispatches say that Mr. Coolidge is to be elected to the sacred council of the Sioux Indians and that he will smoke the pipe of peace with them. It also is rumored that one of the names the Indians are considering giving the President is "Chief Stillwater."

OIL SWINDLE INTO COURTS

"JULIAN PETE" SCANDAL ROCKS
ALL CALIFORNIA.

LOSS IN THE MILLIONS

Leading Financiers, High Political Figures and Civic Leaders Declared Involved.

San Francisco, June 28.—The multi-million dollar Julian Petroleum Corporation stock swindle, qualified to go down in history with the "Mississippi Bubble" and other financial scandals, re-entered the San Francisco courts Monday.

With an audience of over 40,000 Californians who have invested in what is alleged to be an issue of fraudulent and unauthorized stock to the astounding total of $140,000,000, eagerly watching the proceedings, two federal judges will appear before a third and higher court here.

Each judge has appointed a set of receivers for A. C. Wagy & Company, a brokerage house which also went to smash in the wrecking of Julian "Pete".

One judge ordered the state corporation commissioner, John M. Friedlander, to deliver to his receivership appointees the books and records of the brokerage firm. The other judge issued an order forbidding him to do so.

Situation Without Precedent
The higher court, the Circuit Court of Appeals, will have to decide which of the conflicting orders by the two federal judges is to be respected, and which set of receivers is actually to act with authority. It is said that such a situation has never before occurred in the history of California jurisprudence.

The financial foundation of the entire state has been rocked by the $140,000,000 explosion of Julian "Pete". The hitherto immaculate reputations of leading financiers, movie millionaires, high political figures and civic leaders are being splattered with oil as the slow litigation goes on.

The story of the Julian promotion is more astonishing than anything concocted by J. Rufus Wallingford in his prime. Briefly, it is that of a clique of operators who arrived in Los Angeles from New York and Texas a year ago and took over a tottering $30,000,000 all concern. In one hectic year unauthorized and over-issued stock to a value of $140,000,000 is alleged to have been issued, and when the collapse came some 40,000 Californians of a speculative turn of mind found that they had been "done in oil."

The false inflation was discovered when the California-Eastern Oil Company completed negotiations to buy the Julian concern, and tried to effect a stock transfer by issuing shares of California-Eastern for those of Julian.

4,200,000 Shares Fraudulent.
It immediately developed according to the Los Angeles district attorney's office, that there were some 4,200,000 shares of Julian outstanding that did not show on the corporation's books and were entirely fraudulent, although purchased by the individual buyers in good faith.

The resultant crash threw the Julian Petroleum Corporation into receivership, and with it the Wagy brokerage concern.

Two types of crime are stipulated in the flood of complaints, warrants and indictments now being issued.

The first alleges the wrecking of the corporation by Jacob Berman, alias Jack Bennett, and others, by the over-issue of stock. Bennett, under indictment, is a fugitive and is reported to be in Paris. He has with him, according to information laid before the Los Angeles grand jury, a $25,000 automobile presented by 16 speculators who benefited by his "red hot tips" on the frenzied manipulation of Julian stock prior to its collapse.

S. C. Lewis, a former Texas judge and president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation at the time it went into receivership, is working with District Attorney Asa Keyes of Los Angeles in an effort to unravel the seemingly hopeless tangle, and identify the good stock from the fraudulent.

400 Los Angeles Men Accused.

The second crime charges is usury. Some 400 Los Angeles men are accused by City Prosecutor E. J. Lickley of violating the state usury law by charging the oil company officials interest rates ranging from 900 percent down to 10 percent.

These men are alleged to have loaned Lewis and Berman sums in five pools of $1,000,000 each, and in ninety other smaller pools, for the purpose of falsely inflating the value of Julian stock.

Among those accused in the complaints was Harry M. Haldeman, organizer of the Better America Federation, a nation-wide patriotic order.

Some of the accused have made restitution, voluntarily or under pressure, but of the total alleged usury of $18,000,000, only $500,000 has been recovered.

A spectacular figure in the great financial drama is C. C. Julian, who originally organized the corporation and financed it by thousands of small stock sales throughout the southwest.

Founder Aids Prosecution.
Julian was forced out of the corporation before the present trouble began, and relinquished his seat as president to Lewis with the public warning "not to play with the banking burglars." Julian is now attempting to take an active part in the Julian Stockholders Protective Committee, which is pushing the indictments. He is welcomed in some quarters and violently resisted in others.

When some of his advertisements and statements were shut out of the Los Angeles newspapers, he constructed a $200,000 radio broadcasting station in Hollywood, from which in regular talks over the air he has called by name some of the leading bankers of Los Angeles and blamed them for the fiasco, at the same time inviting them to "sue me for slander if you dare."

Jesus God's Magnet, Says Rev. Woodhull

Just as It Is More Than Iron, So Is
He More Than Man, Minister Declares.

Jesus was likened to a magnet in the sermon Sunday night of the Rev. W. S. Woodhull, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

"A magnet," said the Reverend Mr. Woodhull, "is just a piece of iron, plus. It has all the qualities of iron, hardness, toughness, weight. To the sight, to the touch, to the muscular sense, it is iron and only iron."

"So Jesus is just a man, plus. He thinks in human terms, he feels human emotions, he makes his choices in human fashion. There were some things hidden from him, as many things are hidden from every man. He was often weary, he rejoiced in good fellowship, at times he was lonesome, he prayed. He had his dreams and his hours of discouragement. He knew temptation and he knew the life of victory. He loved to call himself, The Son of Man. It is in the record that 'He was tempted in all points like as we are.' In the words of the old creed, 'He was very man.'"

Something More Than Iron.

"But the magnet is something more than iron. For there is something about it that is manifested to none of our senses directly but that draws and lifts and holds. At any iron mill may be seen one of the great magnets that lay invisible hold on a ragged mass of scrap iron and that lifts those thousands of pounds from place to place as the derrick swings. The magnet is iron, but it is iron plus magnetism."

"So Jesus is man, but he is man plus a strange and mighty lifting power. His public life was confined to a corner of the world, obscure and desolate. His activities were but a tiny eddy in the sweeping currents of his day. Yet through two thousand years the world has felt that strange power which made him more than man. Napoleon, on a quiet night as he sat on the deck of his ship, said a word greater than all his wars. 'Alexander, Caesar and myself have founded great empires. But we built our empires by force. Jesus alone founded his empire on love and tonight millions would die for him.' Then he added, 'Gentlemen, I know men. Jesus was more than a man.'"

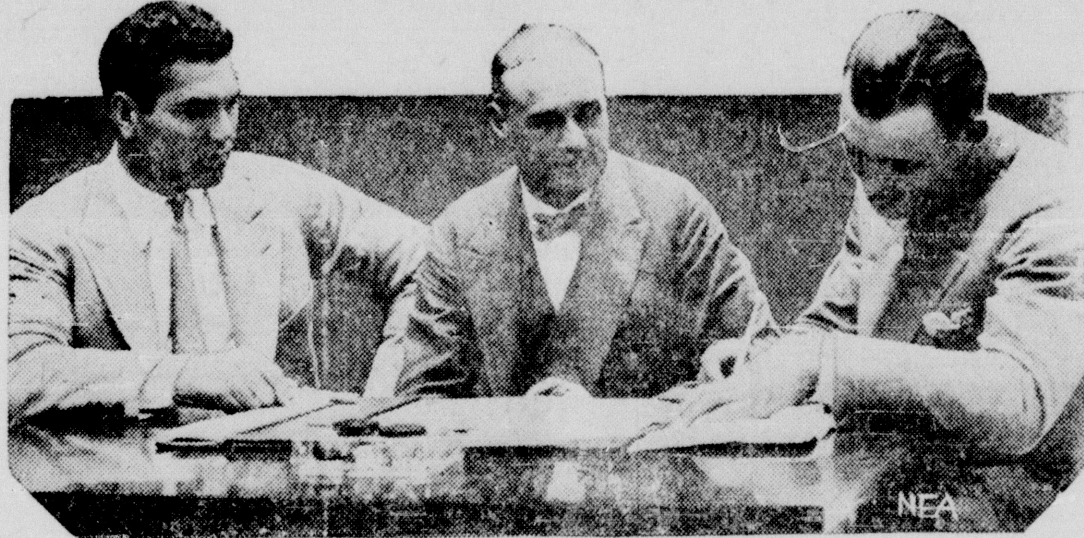

"There are some things that we can believe about a magnet that we cannot believe about an unmagnetized piece of iron. There are some things we can believe about Jesus that we cannot believe about any other man."

Can Believe In Miracles.

"If one were to ask me, 'Can you believe that a man who has been actually killed, who is dead and buried, can rise again and appear among men?' I would answer, 'yes, if that man be Jesus.' Can you believe that a Jewish peasant two thousand years ago could set up moral standards to last through the centuries and could establish a universal religion. Yes, if that peasant be Jesus. Can you believe that his influence can today break the fetters of years of evil habits and transform a man morally and spiritually? Yes, if that influence be the magnetic power of Jesus. Can you believe that a man can so teach and so live and so die that he becomes the dynamic, personal center of a racial progress that has been moving upward through the centuries and that he is the only hope of the continuance of that movement toward the ideals of the complete brotherhood of man? Yes, if that man be Jesus. Can you believe that God can manifest himself in human personality in such a fashion that the revealing may be both human and divine, the Son of Man and the Son of God? Yes, if that man be Jesus."

"No other explanation can adequately explain the acknowledged facts concerning Him. He is man but in Him is the magnetism of God drawing and holding men in the utmost loyalty to him and lifting the whole race generation by generation into a conscious fellowship with the Heavenly Father and into a worthy brotherhood with one another. Jesus can do that and is doing just that because he is God's Magnet."

Prather Talks on "Beauty of Lord"

Sympathetic Search Is Secret of Beholding Loveliness of God, Baptist Minister Declares.

"The Beauty of the Lord refers to his own personal loveliness and grace as well as to his bestowal of gracious gifts. This verse represents the earnest desire of this great heart to have the personal charm and generous heart that belongs to his God," the Rev. Guy L. Prather told his Baptist congregation Sunday.

"To behold God's beauty requires earnest desire and study and contemplation. Some beauty is on the surface and may be easily seen. But most of it is somewhat concealed and yields only to earnest search. The twinkling star has its beauty for every eye and heart. But especially to him who knows its size, its attendants, its movements, its place in the heavenly order. A sympathetic search is the secret of beholding the Beauty of the Lord."

"God often appears stern and exacting as a judge before small offenders; quiet as at Sinai and in the destruction of whole nations. Seemingly cruelities appear in nature and human life. Storm and flood take their toll. Often, however, we can see the love shining through many of life's hardships, as in the father's discipline. Often after years' touch as the lesson of the seeming sternness. But often we must wait with patience while we bear the heavy load, accepting by faith his appointments."

"God also appears as author of all good things, trees and flowers and fruits, stone and star, music of harp and voice, and man himself. He is Father to provide, protect, love. He hath made everything beautiful in its season. God's sternness is balanced by love and makes his loving care all the brighter."

"The beauty of the Lord is attractive and alluring. A taste calls for more. The sound of His voice is music to the heart. He leads in pleasant paths. His beauty is found in every walk of life, if the heart is sensitive and responsive. The desert has its charms. So the vast expanse of rolling seas. So the lonely snow-capped mountain peak. So the waving field of grain, the teeming and billowing gathering storm cloud, the chirping birds, the prattle of the child, the mother's love. Sermons in stones and good in everything. In the good and seem of things, something always shines."

"The rare journey to famous shrines of art as well as the daily walk to the field alike reveal his beauty. The Angelus speaks its message of beauty in common things. The Sistine Madonna speaks of the beauty and joy in a good mother's heart. But these messages are not locked up in famous galleries. They are the daily possession of responsive hearts of all ages and conditions.

"Fanny J. Crosby out of her blindness sang of the Beauty of the Lord. In the prison between soldiers, Peter felt the angel's touch. Florence Nightingale, the Angel of the Crimea, carried the Beauty of the Lord into the lonely soldier camps. Stephen in his tragic death saw God's glory, and out of a heart that reflected heaven's glory, prayed 'Lord lay not this sin to their charge.' He was but following the Lord of Calvary."

COLORADO America's Summer Playground

Mountains to test the mettle of the most adventurous climbers; trout streams to whip; miles of horse-back and foot trails leading from valleys filled with wild flowers up to dizzy alpine heights; a wide choice of accommodations ranging from mammoth metropolitan hotels to rustic log bungalows—a sort of recreation to suit every fancy—accommodations to fit every purse.

A wonderful, health-giving summer climate. And Colorado ozone works fast.

The "two-weeks" vacationer, the worked-out worker, gets more variety, more tonical "punch" in Colorado at the least comparative cost than in any summer region within the scope of his or her vacation possibilities.

Superb equipment, perfect road bed, and courteous, thoughtful service have won for the Burlington the largest patronage of Rocky Mountain vacationists given to any railroad.

The Selling Smile

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) needs no slogans about smiling. There is a certain sadness in the picture of a whole group of people smiling because they have been told to smile—that it's "good business." It seems questionable whether the "selling smile" really sells.

Employees of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) smile—perhaps more frequently than average individuals—but when they smile it is because they feel like smiling—and for no other reason. Their smiles are spontaneous—happy—friendly—contagious.

It is inevitable that in the lives of 29,000 men and women there are times of misfortune—disappointment—sadness—when only the bravest of smiles survive. On the whole, however, the lives of the employees of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are unusually happy and contented.

They have work to do in the world that is human and helpful—they are interested in it—and they are secure in the knowledge that the rewards of their work will be in proportion to the effort and ability they put into it.

Employees of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) know that the Company is concerned about their welfare, having given substantial proof of its concern by such measures as the Employees' Stock Purchasing Plans, the Death Benefit Plan and the Annuity Plan.

Faith in themselves, in the Company of which they are a part, in the products which they help to produce, gives strength and stability to their lives.

Employees of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) have found one of life's few unfulfilling sources of satisfaction—work worthy of the best that is in them—and their attitude that "all's right with the world" is a healthy, wholesome result.

The 29,000 employees of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are loyal, contented workers. Strict integrity and fine principles rigidly adhered to, have inspired their loyalty. Fair treatment and a warm humanity have brought about their contentment.

This is "good business"—same—simple. For in business it is not only what a man does, but how he does it, that counts. Discontented workers do half-hearted jobs, and discontent creeps into the product.

The spirit of the employees of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is reflected in the products of the Company and in its service to the motoring public. Because every employee works wholeheartedly, the name of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has come to stand for certain definite solid things—absolute dependability—uniform products of the highest quality—eagerness and ability on the part of all employees to render the most helpful possible service to motorists.

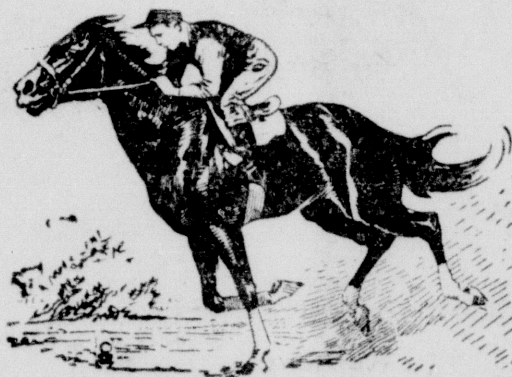

The ability of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to hold and deserve the confidence of the thirty million people of the Middle West is due to the loyal and contented work of 29,000 men and women. Loyalty and contentment are priceless ingredients of all Standard Oil Company (Indiana) products.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

To the queer little South American town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, a town fringed by dark, forbidding jungle, comes an elderly American, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, a chemist.

Nunnally, registers at the ramshackle hotel and steps out on the balcony. A beautiful young girl drives past in a chaise, accompanied by a negro woman and a small child. To the American's amazement, she waves to him, then drives on. He sees two sinister looking men watch the girl, exchange mysterious signals, then follow her.

Another surprise is in store for him. In the barber shop, the barber, a strange dark man with an Oriental cast to his eyes, speaks to him. He then recognizes the barber as VILAKA WEST, known to him as VILAK, a fellow American and former chemistry pupil. He asks Vilak what he is doing in Porto Verde. To his amazement, Vilak says he has sent for him, that he and his cousin, who was the young lady Nunnally had seen from the balcony, owned the Porto Verde Development Co., and were in need of some assistance in getting at the root of a mystery that had already cost several lives and threatened their own.

The barber business, Vilak explains, serves to conceal his real activities. In the midst of his explanation, word reaches him that another man has been murdered, and he and Nunnally hasten to the spot where the victim, TONY BARRETTA, one of his cousin's foremen, lies on the ground, still alive.

Barrettta seems to be in a strange sort of paralysis. He dies, after accusing back from town after my scare was to get some more cartridges for my revolver. It's positively uncanny how those guns disappeared. Schwartz, my German foreman, swears he saw nobody. But, however they did it, the point is that now we are absolutely without firearms."

Vilak snapped open his cigaret case. "Will you believe now that your life is in danger every hour you remain here?"

She nodded, "Yes."

"Do you realize that the one employee on whom you could wholeheartedly rely and who has been more or less your bodyguard has been put out of the way and that the next blow may logically be directed against you? That you haven't the slightest idea of where the blow is coming from, why it's coming, and that with the exception of your colored cook you haven't a single worker you can trust?"

"Yes."

"Will you take the first and only boat that leaves here next week and go to Rio de Janeiro?"

"Certainly not."

"Suppose I order you to go. What then?"

"I'll merely ask you where you get your authority."

Vilak swung on his heel toward the chemist. "There you are," he said, with a mock gesture of resignation. "I told you it would happen. But I know better than to waste time arguing with her. I'm going out to look at that storehouse. My respected relative can come along if she wants to."

They walked out of the door into the clear night, and going to a small cottage where four great shadowy warehouses loomed blackly against the horizon, found Schwartz, the German who had charge of the fazenda properties. He was a little man, quite fat, apparently much too fat for his comfort or his arduous duties, for great heavy tear bags swelled under his eyes and his skin was spotted here and there with areas of asthmatic purple. Yet

Englishman. Von night all der guns disappear and der next before he can get new ones for der city iss many many hills away, someone iss come and kill him in his bed, why knows nobody. Ach, I like not to think of deess days." He shuddered. "I tells you, Miss Marberry, I stay. But if I iss you I go away."

They neared a clump of bushes not far from the stone shed. "Stop here a minute," Vilak asked. The others halted. He drew out his flashlight and stepping carefully ahead, directed it to the footprints deep in the mud. They were two sorts, one small, gracefully shaped, the other broad and squarish. "Those big ones are yours, of course," he asked of Schwartz.

"Ya, ya," the German answered eagerly. "I makes dem ven I come mit Miss Marberry tonight. It iss no use for you to look, Herr Davis. We haf look, und look, und look, till our backs break, und we find muddings. How they hav get dem dings out ven all der doors und windows iss locked, I, Adolf, do not know. Sometimes I think dat der savages iss not so crazy ven they say dat if a man knows der evil spirits in der jungle he can talk to them and they vill make magic."

He shook his fist at the leafy blackness on the horizon. "Where I vill get new guns, dot I do not know. And without guns dot damn jungle he iss to fear. Listen, Fraulein Marberry, listen to Adolf Schwartz. Go away. Quick. Schnell. Schnell."

Vilak demonstrates the frailty of humans by means of a spider and a fly. He suspects things that he is not telling. Read the next chapter.

Independence Has $4,314 Deficit.

Independence, Mo., June 28.—The city treasurer's report here for the period ending June 1, showed a deficit of $4,314.75 for the city as compared with $1,602.88 for the corresponding date last year.

ing Potts, and Vilak astonishes Nunnally by declaring his belief that Potts was not the murderer.

Another man is killed, TONY BARRETTA, one of Elise's foremen. Before he dies, he accuses one LIMY POTTTS of murdering him. Potts admits striking him with a club, but pleads self-defense. Vilak later astonishes Nunnally by saying Limy Potts did not commit the murder. He is silent as to his theory and asks Nunnally to accompany him on a nocturnal visit to the ranch of GAYLOID PRENTISS, a mysterious and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise Marberry. Vilak insists that they wear raincoats, though the night is cloudless.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
CHAPTER VII

Elise's face clouded. Her black eyes half closed to avoid the steadiness of Vilak's gaze. "I don't know what you're talking about," she murmured. "You know perfectly well. I could tell the minute you sat down there and began beating with your fan in that staccato fashion that something was wrong. You don't get rhythmic unless you're absorbed. You can't lie to me, my dear. I knew you too well. Besides, all the furniture in this room has just been moved. And not carefully moved either. Moved in haste. I can tell by the scratches on the floor and the bruised places on the rugs. I should say it was about five o'clock. There are tiny bits of cracker crumbs scattered about, so you must have been having tea at the time. Possibly the maid in her haste knocked the crackers over. Certainly it was after you had been attacked in the road and after poor Tony was killed."

"You know about that attack on me, too? I thought you would."

"Of course. It's my business to know everything. That's why you got me down here. Come. Tell me the truth. Don't mind Nanny. He's disappeared since four o'clock this afternoon. What happened to him for the first thing I did in com-

and screamed. I suppose my nerves were affected more than I thought after that scare on the road. Of course, whatever the reason, it ruined everything. The man inside heard me and darted out through the veranda, without my so much as seeing him, for naturally when I was screaming I wasn't thinking about keeping my eyes on the keyhole.

"Nobody saw him, in fact, though we turned every room upside down, in the belief that he might have hidden in some other part of the house. But he wasn't there. It's quite likely he got up on the roof and jumped down when it got dark. There are plenty of places to hide there and I didn't think of it until too late. I am luckier than I deserve to be. If I'd gone into my bedroom the way I do ninety-nine times out of every hundred, our uninvited guest would have had me in there alone and I would have been helpless."

Vilak meditatively traced with his shoe tip the conventionalized roses worked into the design of the parquet floor. "Nothing in the house touched? No jewels? No papers?"

"Nothing. But something outside the house was. Something quite serious."

The Mongolian cast of Vilak's eyes brightened as he leaned forward attentively. "And that was?"

"Guns. Every one of the rifles we had in the storehouse has been stolen. Except the pistol I have in the bedroom, the whole fazenda is absolutely without a weapon. And the singular part of it is that there wasn't a trace of how they could have been taken, though the ground was terribly soggy everywhere about and every step made a print three or four inches deep. And they could only have disappeared since four o'clock this afternoon. What happened to them for the first thing I did in com-his voice betrayed none of this bodily laziness, being polite but tinged with the short curt note of one accustomed to command.

His great distress over the theft of the afternoon was quite apparent when Elise and her two companions knocked at his door, explaining that she wished to take Mr. Davis and his friends to the shed where the theft had been committed.

"Ach, it's terrible, terrible. Fraulein Marberry," he murmured as he led the way to a small stone building near the edge of a wood where the rifles and more valuable tools were kept. "I gif you mine word I am afraid. And I, Adolf Schwartz, am not a coward. Once before has this happened, ven I vas on der veldt in South Africa on der estate of a rich

This is the busiest age ever known. But it knows the wisdom of taking time for enjoyment.

Busy smokers of today select Camel as their favorite smoke

PRESENT-DAY people, the fastest workers of all time, claim their right to enjoyment. And they choose Camels for the utmost in smoking pleasure.

Camel is made to please and delight the modern, experienced smoker. It is rolled of the choicest tobaccos grown. It is matchlessly blended for mildness and fragrance in the smoking.

Let Camels demonstrate their goodness and you'll know why the smokers of today choose them over all other cigarettes. For that exalted sense of taste-satisfaction, no other smoke can compare with this one.

"Have a Camel!"

Cattle Steady; Hogs Higher; Lambs Lower
Kansas City Stock Yards, June 28.—Cattle prices Monday with but few exceptions, were steady with last week's close. A carload of prime western Missouri steers weighing 1297 pounds brought $13.55, the highest price this year by 5 cents, and other good to choice steers sold at $12 to $13. In some cases the medium to fairly good kinds were quoted weak. Mixed yearlings were stronger and cows weak. Hog prices were strong to 16 cents higher than last week's close, but 25 cents under last week's high point. Sheep and lambs were weak to 25 cents lower than Friday and $1.50 lower than a week ago.

Monday's Receipts.
Receipts Monday were 10,000 cattle, 7,000 hogs, and 6,000 sheep, compared with 10,000 cattle, 6,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep a week ago, and 10,075 cattle, 9,025 hogs and 6,325 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle.
Choice to prime grain fat steers continue in a strong position and the better grades of grass steers are in active demand. The plain to medium kinds are inclined to weaken. Only light receipts are in sight for the rest of this week and next Monday, July 4, will be a general holiday, so that no very liberal supplies are expected until the second week in July. Yesterday the best fed steers here sold at $12 to $13.55; yearlings $10.50 to $12, and mixed yearlings $10 to $10.75. Short fed steers brought $9 to $11.50 and grass fat steers $7 to $10.50. Texas cactus fed steers sold at $9 to $11. Cows were quoted weak, spots lower. Heifers were steady. Veal calves were weak to 50 cents lower, with best bringing $10 to $11.

Stockers and Feeders.
Good to choice stockers and feeders sold readily at strong prices. The medium to fairly good grades were steady. Receipts continued moderate. A good many of the fleshy grassers are going back to the country for feeding.

Hogs.
Hog prices broke late last week, but Monday there was a 10 cent rally the result of an active demand. Receipts here are below normal for this season of the year and will probably remain so for several weeks. A further advance in prices is expected. Monday 170 to 240 pound hogs sold at $8.50 to $8.75; 240 to 310 pounds $8.25 to $8.65; packing sows $7.25 to $7.65; stags $7 to $7.50; stock hogs and pigs $8.50 to $9.25.

Sheep and Lambs.
Lamb prices were quoted weak to 25 cents lower and sheep were barely steady. The general market has been in a decline for two weeks and lambs have been quoted off more than $2.00 for the period. Monday lambs sold at $13.15 to $13.50. No choice western lambs arrived. Yearlings brought $9.75 to $10.50; wethers $7 to $7.50; ewes $5 to $5.50.

Horses and Mules.
Trade in horses and mules remains quiet at unchanged prices. Fall trade will begin in early August.

SUNDAY TOLL IN ACCIDENTS MOUNTS HIGH

Five Die in Colorado in Auto Crashes or by Drowning and Thirteen in Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Denver, Colo., June 28.—Sunday accidents in Colorado took a toll of at least five lives, a check-up revealed today.

Charles McKnight, Fort Morgan, Colo., and Miss Helen Drago, Maryville, Mo., students at the State Teachers College in Greeley, Colo., were drowned when their auto plunged from a bridge near Master. Three others were killed in other accidents.

13 Die in Southwest.
Oklahoma City, Okla., June 28.—Thirteen deaths occurred in Oklahoma and Arkansas over the week-end as crowds sought means to escape excessive heat in the two states, according to reports reaching here.

Seven persons drowned and six lost their lives in motor car accidents. Five persons were drowned here and one in Van Buren, Ark., while five others were killed in motor car accidents in Oklahoma and two in Arkansas.

I. C. C. Studies Cotton Rates in Joint Meet
Fort Worth, Tex., June 28.—Study of rates on cotton and other products was opened here Monday at a joint hearing of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Texas railroad commission.

The two bodies are to delve into the shipping problem in every cotton shipping state before the session closes at the last of the week, according to Ed B. Byars, manager of the Fort Worth Trade Bureau.

A general investigation into the freight rates on cotton and cotton by-products from all points of origin will be undertaken.

Communists May Oust Trotsky and Zinoviev
Central Control Committee Recommends Expulsion Because of Their "Complete Violation."

Moscow, June 28.—The central control committee of the Communist party has recommended expulsion from the party of Leon Trotsky and Gregory Zinoviev, one time Soviet leaders.

Trotsky, associated with Lenin in the establishment of the Soviet government, was the organizer of the Soviet army.

Their expulsion was recommended by the committee on account of their "complete violation of their obligations to cease factional work," the resolution read.

The committee action must be approved by the combined assembly of the central committee and the central control committee and confirmed by the Communist party congress, which will meet probably in November.

'Super Intelligence' Causes Boy's Suicide
Berkeley, Cal., June 27.—"Super intelligence" has been suggested as the motive that led Herbert G. Gardner, 18-year-old University of California freshman, son of a wealthy New York coal operator, to snuff out his own life with gas. Young Gardner was found dead in his room in his fraternity house, his face turned toward the open gas jet.

Wins Championship and $1,000 on "Abrogate"
Ohio Boy Takes First Place, Iowa Lad Comes Second in Spelling Match.

Washington, June 28.—The "O" in "abrogate" was worth fame and $1,000 to Dean Lucas, 13, of West Salem, Ohio, winner of the third national spelling bee. Dean won the championship from a field of seventeen "best spellers" from thirteen states.

Dean's last opponent, Ralph Keenan, also 13, of Waukeon, Ill., spelled "abrogate" with an "E" while Dean got the right letters in their right places. The Iowa lad received $500 for second place. The prizes ranged from $1,000 to $35.

Closing Grain Review.
Chicago, June 28.—Wheat held fairly steady but underwent a fractional decline from the previous close on the Chicago board of trade today.

News of good weather over the belt was general and continued good harvest weather in the Southwest was reported. The cash market was 1 cent lower.

Although corn increased fractionally to a new high at the opening it soon dropped away from the high figure reached yesterday. The cash market was unchanged.

Oats were uninteresting and without feature, losing fractionally during the session. This market continued to follow the lead of other grains. The cash market was unchanged.

Due to liquidation in hard provisions were lower.

Philippines' Need Is Free Trade With U. S.
If Islet's Achieve Independence And Commerce Be Withdrawn, Economic Structure Would Be Gone, Wood.

Chicago, June 28.—The economic future of the Philippine Islands depends on a free trade between the islands and the United States in the opinion of Governor General Leonard Wood, who was here recently following his interview with the President at the summer White House in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

"If the Philippines should now achieve independence, and the trade advantages be withdrawn, the whole economic structure of the islands would be destroyed. Judging from the progress which has been made in the last quarter of a century, it is possible to envision a time when the islanders may successfully carry on as an independent nation," he said.

Nearly Half of U. S. Millionaires in N. Y.
Among Missouri's Wealthy Is One With Income From $3,000,000 to $4,000,000.

Washington, June 28.—Nearly half the millionaires in the United States live in New York state, it was indicated when 96 of the 207 persons who reported incomes of more than $1,000,000 for 1925 gave addresses in that jurisdiction, according to the United States Treasury Department.

New York has two persons who reported incomes of more than $5,000,000 annually while Michigan had two and Pennsylvania, Illinois and Oklahoma one each.

Missouri claimed one who had an income of from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 and two with incomes from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

The number of millionaires in the United States increased from 75 in 1924 to 207 in 1925, the Treasury said.

Plan Non-Stop Flight, Home to Buenos Aires
Rome, June 28.—Colonel Umberto Nobile, member of the Steffanson-Ellsworth Polar expedition, plans a non-stop dirigible flight from Rome to Buenos Aires, he recently informed the United Press.

Sells Wrecked Plane to Junk Man for $20
Curtis Field, N. Y., June 28.—Ramiro Sosa, Mexican student aviator, took his Jenny biplane up for a tail spin in bumpy air. The motor stalled, Sosa, stepped out of the wreckage unhurt, sold the pieces to an unidentified junkman on the spot for $20.

Canadian Expects Divine Manifestation
Toronto, Ontario, June 28.—Dr. Halford Walker, 83, was so certain that divine manifestations will occur soon, coincident with the flight of the Pens-Winnecke comet, that he has disposed of his fortune and made other preparations.

Sends Police Stolen Money to Ease Mind
Chicago, June 28.—Marshall Krauss of New Orleans has been worried for several years. He said that 34 years ago he stole fifty cents from his mother. Twenty-nine years ago he stole one cent from a baby. He has sent police $4.61, principal plus interest, so that his conscience may be eased.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Great Expectations

SUN ECLIPSE IS TOMORROW

PATH OF TOTALITY TO BE 30
MILES IN WIDTH.

Astronomers From Great Britain And United States Prepare To Observe Phenomenon.

London, June 28.—Rising over the Atlantic Ocean, not far from the coast of Ireland and continuing to sweep across the world until it fades out in the Bering Sea, a total eclipse of the sun tomorrow will throw nearly a quarter of a million square miles of the earth's surface into almost total darkness.

With its path of totality thirty miles in width and with a sweep of more than 7,000 miles to make, the eclipse tomorrow will probably be viewed by more civilized peoples of the earth than any in centuries.

Although the eclipse in the British Isles will cast a heavy shadow outside of the 30 mile path, thousands of people are preparing to view the phenomenon, the like of which has not been seen here since 1724 and which will not repeat itself until 1999, within the path of its sweep.

Astronomers To Gather.

Special trains, charabuses and trucks will leave all of the principal cities of England and Wales tonight for the area of totality in the middle of England. Not only will the eclipse be observed by large numbers of curious people, but also by a large group of astronomers, scientists and electrical experts.

The Greenwich Observatory is sending a special expedition, headed by Sir Frank Dyson, the Astronomer Royal, to Yorkshire. The instruments which they have set up there consist of a telescope with a nine inch lens for ordinary photography of the sun and another with a six inch lens of 45 foot focus for work in observing the corona.

Oxford University Observatory has accepted the invitation of the City of Southampton to set up apparatus there and will make efforts to observe the brightness of the corona and, if possible, its polarization.

Cambridge University Solar Physics Observatory is sending an expedition to Norway. This expedition will concentrate chiefly on the chromosphere and on investigation of certain lines at the end of the spectrum of the eclipse.

U. S. To Be Represented.

London University is also sending an expedition to the totality area in England, while many private astronomers have established bases of observation at various points. The United States will be represented by three expeditions which are going to Scandinavia. There will also be a party of Dutch astronomers in Norway.

Knowing only too well the versatility of England's weather, all of the expeditions have automobiles ready to carry their personnel and apparatus to clear spots in the event of storms or clouds.

For several reasons the eclipse will not be a good one for astronomers. In the first place, it is remarked, the totality is far too short to permit thorough observations, especially since the great duration of the totality of the coming eclipse over land is forty-five seconds, while in the British Isles it is only twenty-four seconds. It is also noted that the altitude of the sun while over the British Isles will be only about 12 degrees, while its greatest altitude will be 35 degrees over the Arctic Ocean, where no observations can be made.

What Is Corona?

As is the case during all total eclipses, astronomers will try to answer their own question of "What is the corona?"

The corona is known to have an intimate association with sun-spots. About the sun's poles it takes the form of short tufts or plumes of some light-giving matter—shaped not unlike leaves—which might end in a point almost square as they fade from sight. The most striking form of the corona takes the form of streamers, which on some occasions have been seen to extend outward some millions of miles from the equatorial regions.

Investigations has shown the corona to consist of matter which is partly self-luminous, though much of the light it sheds is reflected sunlight. In the spectroscopic it reflects a mysterious green ray, which cannot be identified with any matter known on earth. This unknown element has been named "coronium."

Caused Uneasiness In Olden Times.

Earlier total eclipses in England fell in the years 878, 885, 1023, 1133, 1140—the latter causing great consternation among superstitious people, who believed the world was coming to an end—1155, 1330, 1424, 1433, 1598, 1652, 1715 and 1724.

Even so late as 1715 the occurrence of a total eclipse caused considerable alarm to the people, for Halley wrote at the time, "I thought it not improper to give the public an account thereof, that the sudden darkness wherein the stars will be visible about the sun, may give no surprise to the people, who would, if unadvised, be apt to look upon it as ominous and to interpret it as pretending evil to Our Sovereign Lord, King George and his Government."

Jesse Gage, Pioneer of the County, Dead

Dies at Home of Daughter, Mrs. O. A. Petty—Was Born Near Maryville, December 17, 1843.

Jesse Gage, 83 years old, died at 11 o'clock this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. O. A. Petty, 409 East Fourteenth street, following a week's illness.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Salem church, south of Maryville, and burial will be in Salem cemetery.

Mr. Gage was born near Maryville December 17, 1843. He was married to Elizabeth Shipley on April 14, 1862, near Springfield, Ill. Eleven children were born to this union, seven of whom, five sons and two daughters survive. They are: Reuben O., Kansas City; David W., Bloomington, Neb.; Amos N., Barnard; Jesse L., Tuttle, Okla.; Mrs. O. A. Petty, Maryville; Charles A., La Russell, Mo., and Miss Katie B. Gage, of Kansas City. One son and one daughter died in infancy, another son, John, died about forty years ago, and a daughter, Mrs. J. W. Tanner, died in 1909. Twenty-three grandchildren and six great-grandchildren also survive.

Since the death of Mrs. Gage about twenty-four years ago, Mr. Gage had made his home with his son, Amos Gage of Barnard. He had been at his daughter's home in Maryville about two weeks.

Miss Elizabeth Greeson To Assist Her Brother In Registering Of Documents In County Records.

The recorder of deeds office is now without a deputy, Jack Greeson, recorder, said today.

J. N. Geyer, who has been a deputy since January 1, when Mr. Greeson took the office, completed his work in the recorder's office Saturday. Mr. Geyer had taught school at Pickering for six years. As yet he has no plans for the future.

Mr. Greeson will be assisted with the office work by his sister, Miss Elizabeth Greeson.

Fear Repetition of 1907 Flood in Colorado

Heavy Rains Since Sunday Raises
All Rivers Into San Juan Basin
To Flood Stage.

Durango, Colo., June 28.—The San Juan basin today faced a repetition of the disastrous 1907 flood.

Heavy rains since Sunday have brought all streams in the basin to flood stage.

The Animas river, which rose 4½ feet since yesterday, washed out the bridge at Tacoma on the Silverton branch of the Denver and Rio Grand Western railroad, shutting off rail communication with the latter town.

Kansan Is Named to Treasury Post

Rapid City, June 28.—Walter Wood of Kansas was appointed by President Coolidge today to be register of the Treasury.

He is a World War veteran and has been in the Treasury department. He succeeds Harley D. Speelman.

Methodists Give 8 Millions to Missions

Chicago, June 28.—Members of the Methodist Episcopal church gave $8,330,352 to the world service program for the year closing May 31. Dr. O. W. Auman, treasurer of the world service commission, reported recently. The total showed a decrease of $323,067 over the 1926 figures.

It's Good Weather for Corn, Mercury to 90

Good corn weather has continued since the official coming of summer, June 22. High temperatures, accompanied by moderate breezes have prevailed. The highest temperature up to 2:45 o'clock today was 90 degrees, J. R. Brink, official weather observer, reported.

This was a rise of 22 degrees in the thermometer since the coldest temperature during the night.

The government forecast for this part of Missouri was slightly cooler weather tonight, and probably slightly cloudy and cooler tomorrow.

COMET HARD TO SEE HERE, SAYS COLBERT

Local Astronomer And His College
Class Unable To Distinguish
Pons-Winnecke Phenomenon.

Maryville persons have not been able to distinguish the Pons-Winnecke comet.

George H. Colbert, local astronomer, and instructor of an astronomy class at the State Teachers College said that the members of his class cannot "find" the comet because it is so dim. It is described as a small hazy patch and it is very difficult to distinguish it from the milky spots in the sky called nebulae.

The comet, which was discovered in 1819 by Jean Louis Pons, French astronomer, was visible last in 1921.

Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory, in an interview in the American Magazine, said the visitor would most easily be visible in the constellation Pegasus, rising in the eastern sky about 11 p. m. on June 26 and for a few days before and after that date. It may best be seen at midnight or shortly thereafter.

Women Help "Drys" Win in Bitter Fight

Prince Edward Island To Maintain Liquor Prohibition Which Has Been In Effect 25 Years.

Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, June 28.—Women, voting for the first time, helped dries to win overwhelmingly the bitterest election campaign in the history of the province.

Its result was to maintain the liquor prohibition that had been in effect here for twenty-five years. Liberals carried twenty-four of the thirty seats, while the Conservative premier, J. D. Stewart, was elected by a bare majority of six votes. At the last election the Conservatives were in control with twenty-four seats.

The Conservatives' program this time was government control of liquor. Liberals favored strict prohibition. The Liberals, however, advocated lower prices for liquor for medical purposes and reductions in the price of physicians' prescriptions.

Around the State in Community Work

Fred M. Hagel, Manager of the Elms Hotel, has been chosen as president of the Excelsior Springs Chamber of Commerce, to succeed Clinton L. Oliver, who will make his home in Colorado. The Excelsior Springs civic unit will major this year in city beautification and a nation wide publicity and advertising campaign for "Missouri's National Health Resort."

Lexington is the first town in the state to acquire a public park under the County Park Law passed at the Fifty-Fourth General Assembly. One hundred acres, the historic Mulligan-Price battlefield is the site. In addition to having recently completed the new Junior-Senior high school building, Lexington has expended $40,000 in improving and remodeling the old building for a ward school.

King City's annual Bluegrass Festival was recently held under the auspices of the Commercial Club. A mile-long parade of handsome floats was a feature and there was a fine program of public speaking from a gigantic outdoor stage built on the high school campus. Miss Elizabeth Blacklock was crowned as the Bluegrass Queen.

The Ash Grove Boosters Club, Fred Hulston, secretary, is now sponsoring a unique movement for city growth. It is known as the "Building Club" and the plan obligates each member to build at least one house a year, either a four or five-room structure, to be rented or occupied by the owner.

The Cassville Commercial Club, W. H. Latham, secretary, is busy preparing an advertising booklet setting forth the advantages of the town and county. The Cassville group will sponsor Boy Scout activities, as well as a program of activities for civic and social betterment.

The California Chamber of Commerce,

Frederick Hert, secretary, is considering a full program of constructive projects, including the possible construction of a community house; rural meetings with farm folk; improved roads leading to the town; work for new grade school; work for new court house; regulate City traffic; promote home industries; organize a merchant's credit system and promote summer concerts.

The new dry milk plant recently secured by the Jasper civic unit will be the means of a great dairy development in the adjoining territory and it is predicted that a $3,000 daily pay roll for the farm folk will be gained within the possibilities when the second and third units of the plant are established. These are provided for as the milk supply increases and most gratifying growth in dairy herds is already noticed.

With one industrial project ready to start, the new addition to the Brown Shoe factory at Moberly, the industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce is at work on other propositions equally as important. A few weeks ago almost $200,000 was pledged to bring new industries to Moberly and to enlarge those already here. The Brown Shoe Co. deal is the first project.

The Taneycomo Chamber of Commerce will put on an advertising campaign telling of the attractions of that section as a resort area for summer vacationists. The Taneycomo Chamber is composed of the local units of a considerable area bordering Lake Taneycomo.

The Charleston Chamber of Commerce has secured for that town a plant of the McBride Cooperage Company of Cape Girardeau, a new industry that will employ perhaps half a hundred workers.

The Sullivan Chamber of Commerce sponsored a radio program from Station WOS on the night of June 6.

The Macon Chamber of Commerce has passed a resolution to construct a 240-acre lake in a natural basin just west of the city at an approximate cost of $14,000. Macon is also to have a $60,000 hospital, both projects being largely sponsored by Theodore Gary, who still claims Macon as his home, although he now resides in Kansas City.

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a "Good Will Tour" to far Alaska and the party will leave St. Louis on July 28. Invitations have been extended through local Chambers of Commerce for others to take the trip with the St. Louisans.

An airplane landing field for Jefferson City is one of the modern and practical needs being discussed in the official bulletin of the Chamber of Commerce. Members of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce were guests of the Jefferson City unit at its membership luncheon on June 16.

The nine men who are to direct Kansas City's 5-year program of industrial expansion have been chosen and it is likely that an elaborate and intensive city survey will be one of the first steps taken. An annual budget of $450,000 will be the advertising ammunition for a great industrial growth.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Worley and baby son, Jack, of Cleveland, O., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Worley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Holt, on West Twelfth street.

Illinois Courthouse Shocks Its Visitors

Murphysboro, Ill., June 28.—Persons entering the temporary Jackson County Courthouse for the past few days have been shocked.

Men squirmed and shimmied as they stood on the steps before entering the temporary offices in Miner's Hall, while women did a long one-step.

An electric wire has been short circuited, connecting with the metal door-step. When a passerby places a foot on the doorframe and another on the sidewalk, a powerful current passes through the victim.

24,000 Sioux Will Help Entertain Cal

Rapid City, S. D., June 28.—Sioux Indians, numbering 24,000, are going to have a part in helping take care of the spare time of President Coolidge while he is here on his vacation. For when Mr. Coolidge goes to Deadwood for the "days of '76" celebration in the middle of August, Chief Yellow Robe, grand nephew of Sitting Bull, with 200 other Sioux chiefs will elect him to their sacred council and smoke a pipe of peace with him. One of the names the Indians are considering for the President is said to be "Chief Still-water."
